Art Unit: 1732

1. Claims 6 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 6 and 8, "the stamper electrotpe" technically lacks antecedent basis as applicant refers to the component of interest as simply a "stamper" in claim 5.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 3, 5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Higuchi et al (see 1a, 1b and 1c in Fig. 2).

The applied reference discloses the instant method and mold apparatus for making a light guide using a core material portion (base 1a) which is fixed to the stamper (1b) with a fixing structure (1c), the latter comprising at least one bolt.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2, 4, 6 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Higuchi et al. The applied reference discloses the basic claimed method and apparatus as set forth in paragraph 2, supra, Higuchi et al essentially lacking the aspects of the fastening member extending through the stamper and the exact thickness of the stamper. Note that Higuchi et al shows a bolt extending through a fastening structure as the fastening means. It is submitted that one of ordinary skill in the art would have had no trouble modifying such an arrangement to constitute merely a bolt itself extending through a portion of the stamper. Such would be a simpler and more direct way of fastening the stamper to the core or base portion of the mold. The exact thickness of the stamper would also have been well within the skill level of the art dependent on injection pressure and the thickness of the lightguide made.
